Board Business

7. Board Business:
   A. Consideration of service alternative recommendations – Lieren Hansen, Service Planning Committee Chair: The Service Planning Committee has been working with the consultant (Kimley-Horn) for the last 10 months or so to examine the service on the southeast end of the valley (Cliffside through Millville). This process has included working with city planners, key stakeholders, and CVTD staff, as well as surveying the public. There were a few different service alternatives developed. After a lot of discussion, it was narrowed down to the following recommendation: combine Routes 3 and 10 (to serve the island only), replace service to Cliffside and River Heights with micro transit, replace service to Providence and Millville (currently provided by Routes 13 and 14) with micro transit, and operate service to Hyrum all day (by Route 12). The goal is to deliver the service in a way that is as close to service-neutral (or service currently provided) and cost-neutral as possible. Discussion about micro transit. Micro transit would be a change in current service and another way the District could provide service moving forward (not temporary). Educating the public would be a priority when starting the service. Smaller vehicles would provide micro transit. The service can start small for a beta test (looking for opportunities to improve) and then grow with demand; micro transit is very flexible. Depending on approval, micro transit could be rolled out sometime this fall. The public survey showed there was more positive reactions than negative. If the Board likes this direction, cost estimates can be put together for implementation; a public hearing would need to be held before significant changes to service can be made. Paul James moved that staff proceed and prepare for implementation (cost, budget, implementation plan). Cecelia Benson seconded. Vote unanimous.

B. Open public meetings training – Seth Tait, Attorney with Olson and Hoggan: Seth Tait conducted the OPMA training that board members are required to complete annually.

C. Board training – Paul James, Board Member: A consent agenda is made up of items that don’t need a full discussion, such as rudimentary elements of a meeting (minutes, agenda, reports, etc.). At the beginning of the meeting, the board chair asks if any items need to be removed for discussion (such as if changes need to be made on the minutes). If a board member asks that an item be moved out, it is moved out. Items that are not removed from the consent agenda are approved and the meeting moves forward. For public hearings, notification to the public should be at least 7 days before. The governing body also sets the rules for the hearing (how long comments can last, etc.). The hearing is opened by the presiding officer; it requires a two-thirds majority vote by the governing body to open or close the public hearing. Generally, the governing body does not talk, respond, debate or answer questions during the public hearing; it is a time to listen to the public. In regards to motions, good language to use is “I move” or “I propose.” It is good to state your name if you motion or second, as it helps the minute takers. Motions require a second before they can be considered; discussion occurs after. Discussion can end naturally or a member can request the discussion to end by “calling for the question” on the motion (requires a second and a two-thirds majority vote to end debate). Discussion about consent agendas. Items that are approved in the consent agenda cannot be removed and discussed later in the meeting. Transparency should be kept in mind.
